

Thinking about Starting a Group Practice?

Your private practice is full and you have a pretty decent waitlist. You're starting to wonder what is next, and as you look around, see a few colleagues who have started a group practice.

Is that your next step?

In this workshop, you will learn:

5 top struggles and rewards of owning a group practice

Key steps to take before having your first associate join you

Identify your "why" for wanting a group practice
